Schwarzenegger Visits Fire Ruins

STRONG SHOWING: California Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger lifts a charred dumbbell Thursday as he and other state officials tour a fire-ravaged community where dozens of homes were left in ruins. The fire, one of the largest in Southern California history, was 38 percent contained Thursday, up from 28 percent the previous day. It has destroyed 64 homes and killed two firefighters.

Obama Speech Blocked

Back-to-school address stirs controversy in the D.C. area

WASHINGTON | Loudoun County school officials have decided not to air President Obama's back-to-school speech, scheduled for next Tuesday, and other area school systems are still uncertain how they will handle the address, which some parents are calling an inappropriate political intrusion into the school day.

Some critics are calling Obama's planned speech at an Arlington County high school — which the White House hopes will be watched live by students and teachers across the nation — an attempt to indoctrinate, rather than motivate, young people. But officials at Wakefield High School say they are proud to host the parent in chief for an appearance that White House spokesman Tommy Vietor described as "entirely about encouraging kids to work hard and stay in school."

Montgomery, Fairfax and Howard Counties said they will let principals decide how or whether to show the president's speech. Officials in Charles County decided they will not air it at all because of technical limitations. DEBBI WILGOREN AND MICHAEL ALISON CHANDLER (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Gates: It's Not Time to Get Out

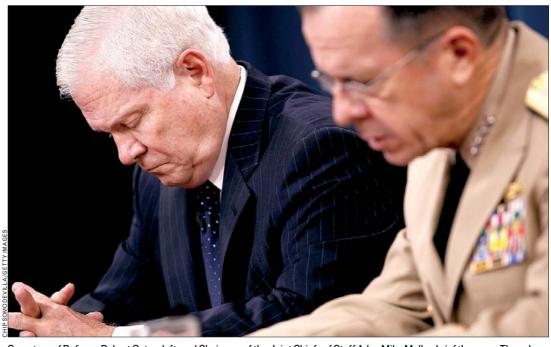

Defense chief signals he will support troop boost in Afghanistan

WASHINGTON | Faced with waning public support for the military escalation in Afghanistan, Defense Secretary Robert Gates said Thursday that the war is worth fighting and signaled for the first time he may be willing to send more troops after months of publicly resisting a significant increase.

Gates urged patience amid polls showing rising disenchantment among the public with the war effort, saying the American military presence in Afghanistan was necessary to derail terrorists.

Gates said efforts by President Obama — including ordering an additional 21,000 U.S. troops to Afghanistan this spring — are "only now beginning" and should be given a chance to succeed.

"I don't believe that the war is slipping through the administration's fingers," Gates said. Later, he added: "I absolutely do not think it is time to get out of Afghanistan."

Secretary of Defense Robert Gates, left, and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Adm. Mike Mullen brief the press Thursday.

Both Gates and Joint Chiefs Chairman Adm. Mike Mullen declined to talk about any of the recommendations contained in a new review of Afghanistan strategy sent this week to them and the president.

A separate recommendation on troop increases is expected in the coming weeks from the top commander in Afghanistan, Gen. Stanley McChrystal, who wrote the new review.

Despite waving off questions about the contents of McChrystal's review, both Gates and Mullen repeatedly referred to some of his recommendations, with Mullen calling it a "frank and candid" look at how military forces can accomplish the Afghanistan mission.

Police reports said Benjamin Dewer, 26, was charged early Wednesday with making false calls to 911. The report said Dewer was apparently drunk when police found him sitting on a sidewalk after the first 911 call. He asked police for a ride to a park and told them he was hungry. When police refused, Dewer walked away and called 9II a second time for a ride. (AP)

Kennedy Candid in Memoir

Senator: My actions after 1969 car crash were 'inexcusable'

NEW YORK | Sen. Edward M. Kennedy wrote in a memoir being published this month that he made terrible decisions after the 1969 car crash that killed Mary Jo Kopechne, but said he was never romantically involved with her and was haunted by that night for his entire life.

He also wrote in "True Compass" that he accepted the conclusion that a lone gunman assassinated his brother President John F. Kennedy.

The memoir is to be released on Sept. 14 by Twelve, a division of the Hachette book group. The 532-page book was obtained early

Sen. Edward Kennedy's memoir doesn't shy away from the low points in his life.

by the New York Times and the New York Daily News.

In it, Kennedy said his actions on Chappaquiddick Island on July 18, 1969, were "inexcusable." He said he was afraid and "made terrible decisions" and had to live with the guilt for more than four decades.

Kennedy drove off a bridge into a pond. He swam to safety, leaving Kopechne in the car.

Kopechne, a worker with slain Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's campaign, was found dead in the submerged car's backseat 10 hours later. Kennedy, then 37, pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident and got a suspended sentence and probation.

In the book, he wrote candidly about his battle with brain cancer and his "self-destructive drinking," especially after the 1968 death of his brother Robert Kennedy.

After his brothers' assassinations, Kennedy said he was easily startled at loud sounds and would hit the deck whenever a car backfired. (AP)

Study: Arctic Feels the Heat

Scientists say region's temperatures are the warmest in 2K years

WASHINGTON | The Arctic is warmer than it's been in 2,000 years, even though it should be cooling because of changes in the Earth's orbit that cause the region to get less direct sunlight.

Indeed, the Arctic had been cooling for nearly two millennia before reversing course in the last century and starting to warm as human activities added greenhouse gases to the atmosphere.

PIECED TOGETHER

→ The new report is based on a decade-by-decade reconstruction of temperatures over the past 2,000 years developed using information from ancient lake sediments, ice cores, tree rings and other samples. The findings were then compared with computer climate model simulations.

"If it hadn't been for the increase in human-produced greenhouse gases, summer temperatures in the Arctic should have cooled gradually over the last century," said Bette Otto-Bliesner, a National Center for Atmospheric Research scientist.

The most recent 10-year interval, 1999-2008, was the warmest of the last 2,000 years in the Arctic, according to the researchers led by Darrell S. Kaufman, a professor of geology and environmental science at Northern Arizona University.

Summer temperatures in the Arctic averaged 2.5 degrees Fahrenheit warmer than would have been expected if the cooling had continued, the researchers said.

Finger Is Bitten off at Calif. Protest

LOS ANGELES | One man bit off part of another man's finger when a health care reform demonstration turned violent.

William Rice said doctors did not reattach the bitten-off part of his left pinky after he got in the middle of a rally Wednesday night that he said was "very scary."

"I didn't go out to demonstrate my beliefs. I happened to be driving by and I stopped to ask people what their purpose was," Rice said Thursday. "I had no signs; I was not part of the demonstration."

About 100 demonstrators in favor of health care reform had gathered on a street corner for an event organized by MoveOn.org. About 25 counterdemonstrators gathered across the street.

The biter fled before authorities arrived. He could face felony mayhem charges. (AP)

Election Triggers Unrest in Gabon

Opposition protests after late dictator's son declared winner

LIBREVILLE, GABON | Gabon's government declared late dictator Omar Bongo's son the winner of presidential elections Thursday, triggering the worst violence in years in the oil-rich nation.

In Gabon's steamy coastal city of Port Gentil, mobs protesting 50-year-old Ali Bongo's electoral victory burned France's consulate, attacked the offices of French oil giant Total and pillaged shops.

Over 41 years, Omar Bongo amassed a fortune from the country's oil wealth, owning 45 homes in France and more than a dozen luxury cars, including a Bugatti worth $1.5 million. Meanwhile, a third of Gabon's citizens lived in wretched poverty, some digging through dumps for food.

Opposition supporters, feeling Sunday's election was stolen and aghast that the Bongo family would continue to rule, turned their anger on the country's former colonial ruler, France, widely suspected of having propped up the dictator and meddling in the vote.

In Paris, French Foreign Minister Bernard Kouchner said Gabonese troops helped evacuate people from offices of Total and Schlumberger, the world's largest oil field services company.

"We firmly condemn these attacks on public order, and we are ready to help French citizens if they need it," Kouchner said.

A Polish Schlumberger field engineer in Port Gentil was seriously hurt during rioting in the city, located 100 miles south of Libreville, said company spokesman Stephen Whittaker in Paris.

In the capital, Libreville, police fired tear gas at demonstrators, injuring one of the country's main opposition candidates, Pierre Mamboundou, who reportedly went into hiding. The violence was also felt abroad as protesters in Dakar, Senegal, stormed Gabon's embassy and set it ablaze.

Embassy announces surveillance of guards accused of misdeeds

KABUL | The U.S. Embassy in Afghanistan has banned alcohol and assigned American personnel to watch the embassy's security guards after allegations of lewd behavior and sexual misconduct at their living quarters.

The announcement of the crackdown on embassy guards came as NATO reported the deaths of two U.S. service members in southern Afghanistan. A British soldier was also killed, according to the U.K. military.

The U.S. Embassy announced its new security measures Thursday after an independent watchdog group charged that guards hired by a private contractor were intimidated by supervisors. The alleged mistreatment occurred at their off-site living quarters.

Meanwhile, photos were released of guards and supervisors in various stages of nudity at parties flowing with booze.

drug treatment center in Ciudad Juarez. Chihuahua state authorities said Thursday they were investigating reports that the centers have turned into hideouts for drug smugglers being sought by police and hit men from rival gangs.

Public Safety Secretary Genaro Garcia Luna, Mexico's top law enforcement official, said rehab clinics were also being used as recruiting centers by cartels.

He told The Associated Press that a recently detained drug suspect belonging to the La Familia cartel oversaw various private, nonprofit drug rehab centers across western Michoacan state. The suspect, Rafael Cedeno, claimed to have trained 9,000 recruits for the cartel in 2008.

"We're checking to see if there is a link with what we've found [in Michoacan]," Garcia Luna said.

Garcia Luna said in Michoacan, Cedeno's rehab centers held retreats to train members, and if addicts did not cooperate, they were executed. (AP)

Needle stabbings spur march for improved security in Urumqi

URUMQI, CHINA | Thousands marched through this city in western China on Thursday after a series of stabbings with hypodermic needles further unnerved residents already iittery over deadly rioting between Han Chinese and Muslim Uighurs.

More than 10,000 people, mostly from the Han Chinese majority, took to the streets, demanding increased security and punishment for those behind the July riots. Demonstrators said police beat some protesters, but there were no major clashes.

By nightfall, authorities had cordoned off the city center, blocked intersections with patrol cars, and disconnected mobile phone text messaging services. Paramilitary police with shields, sticks and submachine guns sealed off People's Square, where demonstrators had shouted down politicians.

"Everybody is angry," said a female hotel receptionist surnamed Ma. "Two months have passed, and the hooligans still haven't been brought to justice."

DCPS Test Cheating Is Probed

Schools where scores jumped dramatically for '08 investigated

District officials revealed Thursday that they commissioned an investigation last fall into possible cheating at 26 public and public charter schools where reading and math proficiency on the 2008 DC-CAS standardized tests increased markedly.

The probe, an analysis of incorrect student answers that were erased and changed to correct answers, found "anomalies" at some of the schools.

D.C. Schools Chancellor Michelle A. Rhee hailed the 2008 gains in scores as a testament to the hard work of teachers and students. Teachers and administrators at public schools with gains of 20 percent or better in both reading and math received cash awards. BILL TURQUE (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Metrobus Strikes Jogger in D.C.

Woman is in critical condition after being hit; driver put on leave

Police are trying to determine the identity of a woman who is in critical condition after a Metrobus struck her while she was jogging Thursday morning in Northwest Washington.

The bus was going eastbound on Florida Avenue at Connecticut Avenue at 8:31 a.m. when it struck the woman, police spokesman Gwendolyn Crump said.

The woman, who had no identification, was taken by ambulance to George Washington University Hospital, Metro and D.C. police officials said.

D.C. Fire and Emergency Medical Services spokesman Pete Piringer said she was taken to the hospital as a Priority One, meaning she had serious and lifethreatening injuries.

The driver was placed on paid administrative leave pending the outcome of an internal investigation and was to be given a drug and alcohol test. Both are standard agency practices, McNeil said.

Because the bus, No. 4262, was not in service, no passengers were on board, McNeil said.

Metro officials declined to name the bus driver or confirm whether she has been involved in previous accidents. JAMES HOHMANN (THE WASHINGTON POST)

VIRGINIA TECH QUARTERBACK TYROD TAYLOR, DESCRIBING THE ADVICE HE GOT FROM FORMER TECH QB MICHAEL VICK WHILE VICK WAS STILL IN PRISON

Now, It's Tyrod's Time

Dual-threat QB aims to lead Hokies on run at the national title

HOKIES FOOTBALL | To prepare for his first season carrying Virginia Tech's national title hopes, Tyrod Taylor sought the counsel of another dual-threat quarterback who performed the role for the Hokies better than anyone: Michael Vick.

The two quarterbacks spoke by phone after Vick was released from federal prison earlier this summer. Vick's dazzling play carried the Hokies to the Sugar Bowl after the 1999 season, where they lost the national championship game 46-29 to Florida State.

Now, it's Taylor's turn to try to do the same thing - starting with Saturday's game against No. 5 Alabama. "He just told me that this was a big season and just to go out there and have fun; don't put too much pressure on myself," Taylor said.

Besides soliciting some advice from the new Eagles quarterback, Taylor did some work at home this summer with his teammates and attended the Manning Passing Academy in Louisiana, working with Peyton and Eli Manning and other top quarterbacks.

His preparation also included studying film to remove the hitch from his throwing motion, focusing on deep throws and working on his pocket presence. He knows he will need to rely on the Hokies' other playmakers this season.

"I have a lot of guys out there, receivers that can make plays," Taylor said. "It's my job to get the ball to them."

The ability of Taylor to stay healthy also will be critical for the seventh-ranked Hokies. In the past, Taylor relied on his feet so often that he almost seemed reluctant to throw a pass. It was a style that led to numerous big plays but also led to ankle injuries.

With games against Alabama, No. 24 Nebraska and Miami in the first month, Taylor will need to be very good right away. "He's exactly the type of player you want leading a football team," said Hokies coach Frank Beamer. HANK KURZ JR. (AP)

UNITED Hothead D.C. United goalie Josh Wicks kept his team in Wednesday's U.S. Open Cup final against Seattle with several spectacular saves, then blew it after yielding a rebound goal in the 67th minute, stomping on the scorer and getting ejected. On Thursday, United, which lost, 2-1, said executives and coaches met with Wicks and "expressed that his behavior ... was unacceptable and that he will be subject to internal discipline." Wicks also had a heated confrontation with teammate March Burch last weekend at Chicago. (EXPRESS)

HEISMAN PRIMER

Move over, Archie Griffin — you may have company in the two-time Heisman Trophy winner club soon. Tim Tebow could become the most decorated college football player ever with another trophy and another Gators title. But Sam Bradford has an NFL contract to play for, and gunslinger Colt

McCoy still has a legacy to cement at Texas. This is the closest preseason race between three legit contenders in some time, and the race for the 75th Heisman Trophy should be fun. CLINTON YATES (EXPRESS)

Tim Tebow, QB, Florida

Tim Tebow will become the only Heisman winner to ever vote for the award a second time, even as he is widely regarded as the favorite in this year's race. But two things might hold Tebow back. First, his team will be more focused on repeating as national champions. The Gators lost four games in '07 when Tebow won the Heisman. A year like that is unacceptable for Florida now. Second, coach

Urban Meyer has said sophomore John Brantley will get "meaningful minutes" this season. That's less time for late-game stat padding. Besides, Tebow said last year he'd vote for Colt McCoy anyway, so he might not even care

Sam Bradford, QB, Oklahoma

Sam Bradford has a trophy of his own from last season, but he also has only five returning starters on his offense for Oklahoma. However, as the reigning champ, if the stalwart passer even gets close to his numbers from last season, he may be hard to unseat. Ironically, with such a tough schedule, the Sooners might be out of the national championship hunt early enough for Bradford to focus on repeating as Heisman winner. If not, how does No. 1 overall NFL draft pick sound instead?

Colt McCoy, QB, Texas

Colt McCoy has the name and the pedigree to prove he belongs among college football's all-time elite. The Texas QB led an upset of Oklahoma last year but lost out to Heisman ceremony snub Graham Harell and Texas Tech in arguably the game of the year (or maybe the decade). Some say that loss cost him the award. He has a bulk of his offense returning, and you can think of it this way: If McCoy wins, all three go home with trophies.

OTHERS TO WATCH

Cal's JAHVID BEST is at the top of most college football fantasy draft boards for RBs, which makes him a candidate in our eves. But bias against West Coastteams not named USC may hurt his chances.

JEVAN SNEAD is a popular pick to make it to New York, and after a breakout '08 season, Ole Miss' favorable schedule lends itself to such a run.

Dangerous Oklahoma State WR DEZ BRYANT may be tough to separate from his dual-threat teammate QB Zac Robinson, but consider this: Bryant also returns kicks.

Terrapins Try to Defy the Odds

Youth-filled Maryland opens the year as big underdog versus Cal

TERPS FOOTBALL | On the wall in the lobby of the Maryland football team house hang three flat-screen Samsung televisions encased in a red wood trim. A handful of images and graphics cycle through on the high-def monitors: team logos, the image of an ACC championship ring, and then the words "Cal Week" and the number 21.

Cal Week obviously refers to Saturday's season-opening road game against No. 12-ranked California. But why 21?

"21 points," coach Ralph Friedgen offers after a little nudging. He finally admits it refers to the California native Chris Turner gives the Terps needed experience against the Bears.

21 points the oddsmakers expect his Terrapins to lose by on Saturday night. One of the coaches put it there to fire up the players.

The last time the Terrapins began a season with such a highprofile game was 2002, when they lost 22-0 to Notre Dame.

Friedgen remembers the game for the deer-in-the-headlights look in quarterback Scott McBrien's eves. "It was his first game, and his eyes were like saucers," Friedgen said. "That's a little bit of a concern I have. I don't know how our guys are going to be."

Though it's his youngest team in years, Friedgen is comforted this time by the presence of senior quarterback Chris Turner, a threevear starter.

"He's very calm, very relaxed, very confident," the coach said. "I think for us to have a good football season, he has to play well. He's shown me that he's very capable of doing that."

Then a reporter pointed out that he'd just seen Saturday's point spread increase to 22 points. "I guess he'll be changing that screen then," Friedgen said. DEREK TURNER

top 10 poll

USC is counting on freshman Matt Barkley to catch on quickly this year.

FLORIDA: The defending national champ has the game's biggest star: Tim Tebow.

NEXT GAME: VS. CHARLESTON SOUTHERN, SEPT. 5

TEXAS: Can Colt McCoy and company channel the anger of last year's perceived snub?

NEXT GAME: VS. LOUISIANA-MONROF, SEPT. 5

OKLAHOMA: There are few teams better in the regular season each year than the Sooners.

NEXT GAME: VS. NO. 20 BYU, SEPT. 5

SOUTHERN CAL: Freshman QB Matt Barkley is under an enormous amount of pressure.

NEXT GAME: VS. SAN JOSE STATE, SEPT. 5

ALABAMA: Nick Saban pulled a stunner with a strong team last year. Can he keep the Tide coming?

NEXT GAME: VS. NO. 7 VIRGINIA TECH (IN ATLANTA)

OHIO STATE: A home game against USC and a road trip to Penn State will define its season.

NEXT GAME: VS NAVY SEPT 5

VIRGINIA TECH: The ACC's best program has hopes of winning the national championship.

NEXT GAME: VS NO 5 AL ARAMA (IN ATLANTA)

MISSISSIPPI: QB Jevan Snead makes the Rebels a team worth watching this season. NEXT GAME: AT MEMPHIS, SEPT. 6

OKLAHOMA STATE (TIE): As if the Big I2 isn't hard enough, the Cowboys start against Georgia.

NEXT GAME: VS. NO. 13 GEORGIA, SEPT. 5

PENN STATE (TIE): Joe Paterno is back on the sideline. Is PSU back as a title contender?

NEXT GAME: VS. AKRON, SEPT. 5

JIMMY CLAUSEN looks like the real deal and Notre Dame stuns USC Oct. 17, making up for a Sept. 19 loss to Michigan State in what is an II-win year for the Irish.

No. I Florida stumbles against Lane Kiffin and Tennessee Sept. 19. No. 5 Alabama survives No. 7 Virginia Tech in week I but falls Oct. 10 at No. 8 Mississippi, which will already have been stunned by Steve Spurrier's South Carolina Gamecocks on Sept. 24.

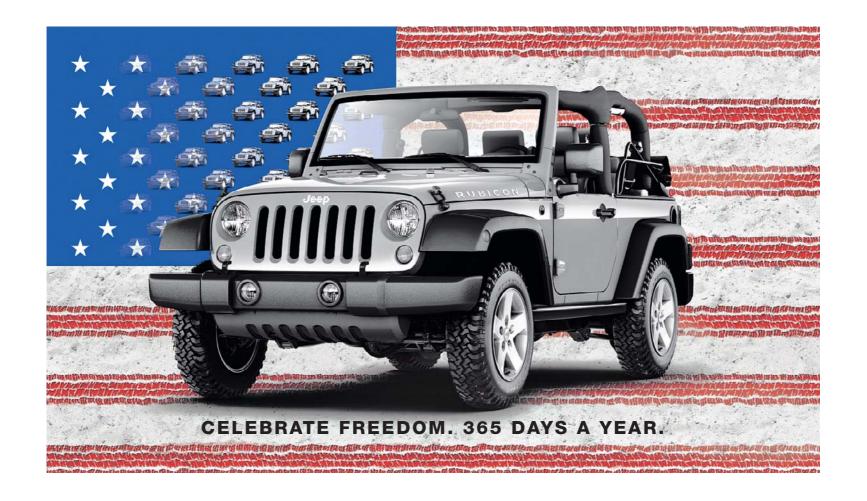

No. 6 Ohio State will get the best of No. 4 USC and its freshman quarterback in Columbus on Sept. 12, yet JOE PATERNO'S No. 9 Penn State Nittany Lions will take advantage of their home-field edge on Nov. 7. Happy Valley would be even happier except that Penn State slips earlier in the year against No. 22 Iowa.

BCS BOMBS With a slew of one-loss teams, the BCS

The BCS can work if only two major conference powers finish the season undefeated. Given the preseason top teams are in the uber-competitive SEC and Big 12, that doesn't seem likely. So, here is one doomsday scenario that will probably be eclipsed once the BCS games are really decided. (EXPRESS)

Christie Brinkley

SUPERMODEL, JEWELRY DESIGNER, '80S ICON

If shoulder pads can make a major comeback, so can Christie Brinkley. The original '80s poster girl, former horseback-riding champ and mom of three has returned to fashion as the designer of a colorful, affordable jewelry collection by Ross-Simmons (sold at Christiebrinkleyjewelry.com).

Designing seems like an interesting way to experience another side of fashion. Did you enjoy it?

I did! The collection is a reflection of what I love. There are peace and love symbols, but also a lot of items inspired by the outdoors. I'm a big gardener and an environmentalist, and you see that in the floral designs. I also love the wild west and horseback riding — I was a National Cutting Horse Association champion back in 1991! — so, there are elements of Native American jewelry in there as well.

As a former model, you're usually associated with fashion. Is jewelry also a passion of yours?

I've always loved jewelry. Having been a model and having traveled around the world, from Kenya to Hong Kong to wherever, I'd always try to extend my trip and stay for a few more days. I'd go to the marketplaces and buy loads of stuff from the indigenous culture - fabrics and furniture and lots of jewelry.

How would you describe your style?

I like to have fun with my different moods. I guess you could say I'm very American, especially with the idea of America being a melting pot. If I'm going to one of my daughter's concerts, I'll try to be a little more rock 'n' roll maybe one of my vintage 1970s concert tees with a blazer, jeans and funky jewelry. If I'm going to an event out in the Hamptons, where I live, I might wear a beautiful dress from Ralph Lauren or Donna Karan.

You sound like a pretty hip mom.

My kids always have an opinion about what I'm wearing. The other day, my son actually said, "Mom, you can't wear those jeans anymore. They're so over." Three kids all with different opinions can be rough.

What do you think of the return of '80s fashions?

It's crazy! At some of the fall runway shows, the designers said they modeled the girls after Brooke Shields and me, with our hair and makeup from back then. It's fun, but it's a reminder that I'm quite the relic.

Can you believe big shoulders and zippered jeans are back in style?

My daughter Alexa will say, "I love this! It's so '80s!" But I always thought of the '80s as the least stylish decade that I could possibly think of, and now it's back. Looking at my old modeling portfolio, I can't even believe that's the decade I got.

What's next for you?

I've been working on my Web site, Christiebrinkley.com. I even made a Facebook page. I was resistant to all of this at first, but I'm finally joining the electronic age.

Do your kids help you out?

They know more than me! If I need any help, I have two experts on call at home. Betsy Lowther (Express)

Chuck Full of Flavor

THE LAST BURGERS OF SUMMER would taste bittersweet even if they were topped with Velveeta and that sickly green ketchup usually on sale at Giant. But mixing Williams-Sonoma's Hamburger Seasoning ($10, Williams-Sonoma stores) into ground beef or turkey turns out patties starring flavors such as mustard, garlic and parsley. Mess that combo up with melted cheese at your own peril.

ROOMS IN RESTORATION HARDWARE catalogs, all somber wood furniture and matching mint paint/curtains/dish soap, once resembled a McLean McMansion crossed with an upscale funeral home. But the company's new fall line — which includes vintage farm cart coffee tables (shown, $995), metal pharmacy lamps ($219) and shelves supported by architectural corbels — suggests Mr. and Mrs. Restoration ditched the 'burbs for a Brooklyn loft. The prices, though, remain far above starving artist levels.

Chic for What Chills You

THAT NIP IN THE A.M. air doesn't mean you need winter woollies yet. But these near-fallish days (or nights, at least), call for a smidge of snuggle. Loop one over a shift dress now or on top of a leather jacket later. The beauties are also large enough to serve as impromptu picnic table cloths, should the need arise.

WE'RE LIVING IN a Costco world, where jars of mayo are bigger than the mailbox and potato chips come in huge, hyper-huge and sleeping bag-worthy sizes. Get a handle on monster sacks of snacks with Copco's bag caps ($6 each, Sur La Table, 52II Wisconsin Ave. NW; 202-237-0375), which attach to any plastic bag so you can easily store and pour your jumbo Cheetos whenever you're feeling peckish. No word on

By the comparison, ugly and poorly made shoes bring the wearer down, causing one to lumpily schlump around like the water buffalo. JEANS
THAT

In the '60s, Janis Joplin looked groovy in tiedyed bell-bottoms. In the '80s, Debbie Harry and Joan Jett wore skinny jeans (often with ankle zippers) to get down at CBGB. And in the age of grunge, nobody shredded a pair of Levi's — or a guitar — more enthusiastically than Courtney Love.

For fall, jeans riff on the rocker-chick cool of folkies, punkers and New Wave icons. Think studded straight-legs, dip-dyed boot cuts and weathered, hole-filled boyfriend styles that could've been at Woodstock. "Women have gone grungy in a chic way," says Diesel spokeswoman Mary Lawton. "The biggest trend: shredded denim." Wanna join the bad-girl band? Keep the rest of your outfit simple — maybe an oversize sweater or a slim, boyfriend blazer. And don't forget your backstage pass. Ashlery Joy PARKER

SELF-LOVE: The Apples in Stereo give off the vibe that if their songs aren't No. I hits, that's Billboard's problem, not theirs.

A Saucy Bunch

The Apples in Stereo get cheeky with the excellent new album '#I Hits Explosion'

MUSIC | It's hard to talk about the Apples in Stereo without referencing the Beach Boys (for nostalgia reasons), Electric Light Orchestra (for fantastical, multilavered shimmer-rock reasons) and the rest of the famed Elephant 6 Collective (for revolutionizing-theindie-scene reasons).

But the Apples stand alone in pop rock, not only for their attitude, but for the sheer, unadulterated joy that comes across in whatever they do. Varying from glazed-over space rock to insanely peppy electronica and everything in between, the Apples' repertoire features far more ups than downs. Any bestof collection would include four or five must-haves.

The Apples' latest album, "#1 Hits Explosion" gets it exactly right: If you buy only one Apples in Stereo album in your life, this should be it. The Apples aren't the kind of band that hates its popular songs and refuses to perform them live — one of the benefits of never having top-40 hits, at least, is that you don't get sick of them. In fact, the title "#1 Hits Explosion" is as ironically self-aggrandizing as the song "The Apples in Stereo Theme Song," which proclaims, "We are the Apples in Stereo/You hear our records on the radio."

You'll hear the band on Cartoon Network, sure, but probably not the radio. Nonetheless, the Apples have the cred to make this kind of ploy awesome instead of just sad and bitter. Their attitude seems to be, if these songs aren't No. 1 hits, well, that's Billboard's problem, not the Apples'.

"#1 Hits" is perfectly mixed, kicking off with the advertisement-ready crowd-pleaser "Energy." "Go" is about as kid-friendly circus-pop as you can get without crossing into "Yo Gabba Gabba" territory (although Schneider has already crossed that line with his own kids' project, Robbert Bobbert). "Same Old Drag," the natural counterpart to "Energy," is one of the band's best songs - and, seriously, watch the video. Why don't all bands seem to enjoy their own songs this much? If a band's members aren't air-jamming in a van to their own tunes, maybe they should reassess their chosen career path. AFTON LORRAINE WOODWARD

Finely Tuned Rock-Doc

'It Might Get Loud' takes an intimate look at the foremost guitar heroes of our time

FILM | When it's nearing midnight and some amazing maniac is shredding through a guitar solo onstage, eyes closed, sweat flying, vibrations rumbling through the house like a northbound freight train, it's easy to forget just how much art and craft and science is involved in creating that sound.

These artists talk about their relationship with and philosophies of that curve of electrified sound.

Director Davis Guggenheim, who brought us Al Gore's "An Inconvenient Truth," reminds us of this in his very fine documentary about the electric guitar and the men who play it best, "It Might Get Loud."

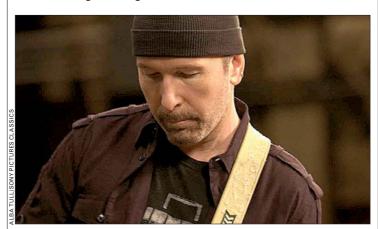

Following three generations of rock virtuosos — Jimmy Page, the Edge and Jack White — on a journey through time, the film takes us behind the scenes as these artists talk about their relationship with and philosophies of that curve of electrified sound they have each mastered in distinctive ways.

The film culminates as the three finally come together on an empty soundstage in Hollywood for a conversation and a raucous jam session that is remarkable for its intimacy and its passion.

But the story begins more

Jimmy Page: Best known as Led Zeppelin's guitarist. Page was ranked No. 9 on Rolling Stone magazine's IOO Greatest Guitarists of All Time list.

The Edge: Responsible for crafting U2's universally loved sound. He was ranked No. 24 on Rolling Stone's IOO Greatest Guitarists of All Time list.

Jack White: Of the White Stripes, the Raconteurs and the Dead Weather. White was No. 17 on Rolling Stone's 100 Greatest Guitarists of All Time list.

ABOUT THE MOVIE

- → DIRECTOR: Davis Guggenheim
- → STARS: Jimmy Page, the Edge, Jack White
- → IN A NUTSHELL: Guggenheim looks at the past and present of three great musicians, showing their work separately and, at last, bringing them together.
- → FOR FANS OF: "The Last Waltz," "The Beatles Anthology"

simply in a pasture as White, the creative force behind the White Stripes and the Raconteurs and the youngest of the three, builds a guitar out of fence wood, a Coke bottle, a few nails and some twine. You can make a guitar out of anything, he tells us, as he turns this crude but playable instrument over in his hands.

It all feels very personal. Whatever you might already know - and many fans will know a great deal — the filter of a different prism still has the power to take you by surprise. Although it meanders at times between their backstories, it is best when it turns intimate. The Edge working in his studio on a wind-swept beach that looks as mournful as his music sometimes sounds. White so lost in a rangy riff that his fingers start to bleed. Page suddenly playing a mean air guitar, loose limbs following a silent beat.

And, of course, there is the music. In nearly every moment, an incredibly rich mix of their music, groundbreaking, defining, that alone would almost be enough. That "It Might Get Loud" comes with a righteous story, too, is a lovely bonus. Betsy sharkey (LOS ANGELES TIMES)

Alt-country rabble-rousers the Waco Brothers are at lota on Saturday.

FRIDAY

The monthly Moneytown funk-and-soul party goes international tonight with an appearance by George Mahood, the man behind Manchester's Concourse Records. Suffice it to say that Mahood knows his stuff, and he has most likely squirreled away a few choice singles over the years. He'll be joining the fiercely local DJ Nitekrawler at DAHLAK for a night of no-cover dancing.

SATURDAY

Fans of raucous alt-country will want to make a full day of it in Clarendon because IOTA has a day-to-night doubleheader with two of the genre's biggest names. In a rare matinee, the club hosts the Waco Brothers, alt-country rabble-rousers. The nightcap features roots-rock veterans the Bottle Rockets, who have mellowed a bit after nearly two decades but should still have no problem getting the crowd into things.

SUNDAY

Daylight — the dance party of retro disco, rare grooves, house and garage — runs for the whole night at BOHEMIAN CAVERNS when the next day's a holiday. Doors open at 7 p.m., and there are two-for-one cosmos, Heinekens and Coronas until 9 p.m. Get there by 9 p.m. to feast on the soul food buffet, which is (honestly) almost as much of an attraction as DJs Source and Divine.

Nothing About Mary

'All About Steve' stars Sandra Bullock as an awful woman with an unfortunate crush

FILM | It's bad enough that the usually enjoyable Sandra Bullock has found a way to star in not one but two flat romantic comedies this summer, between "The Proposal" in June and now "All About Steve." But what's truly baffling — disheartening, really — is the fact that this latest one was written by a woman.

Kim Barker came up with the script in which Bullock's character, a crossword puzzle writer named Mary Horowitz, is singularly annoying from the first moment we meet her. It's almost misogynistic, the lack of humanity Barker's script gives this woman.

Mary is a goofy, clingy, hyperactive chatterbox who bores people everywhere she goes with her arcane bits of trivia and long-winded anecdotes. She lives at home with her parents (Beth Grant and Howard Hesseman, who don't get much to do) and needs to be fixed up on a blind date to have even a remote chance at intimate contact with a man. The film affords her no sympathy for any of these traits.

When Mary finally meets handsome cable-news cameraman Steve (Bradley Cooper, all blue eyes and blinding teeth), she immediately throws herself at him. Then she misinterprets a comment he makes in the frenzy of scurrying away from her as an invitation to join him on the road covering breaking news, and ends up stalking him across the country. Each time Mary finds Steve, she jumps up and down like a little girl, then runs toward him and pummels him with affection. It's actually pretty frightening behavior.

Then, just when it seems "All About Steve" couldn't grow any more insufferable, it turns strangely sentimental, which allows Mary to make profound observations about life in the form of forced crossword-puzzle metaphors. Too bad the movie itself doesn't have a clue. CHRISTY LEMIRE (AP)

The View From the Top

'Extract' is a lesser 'Office Space' from the boss' perspective

FILM | Ten years ago, Mike Judge satirized the absurdities of the workplace experience from the perspective of put-upon employees with "Office Space." It didn't do much when it came out but, as we all know by now, it became a cult favorite on cable and home video, to the point where it changed the way you looked at the common stapler.

Now, Judge is back to the daily grind with "Extract," but this time the writer-director tells his wacky

working tales from the boss' point of view: that of Jason Bateman's extract factory.

It's doubtful that this comedy Joel Reynold, owner of a flavor | will grab its audience in the same | way, though. Judge's characters are so one-note and their misadventures so ridiculous that it's hard to get attached to them or care about how they turn out. Pretty much everyone in "Extract" is stupid, unlikable, self-destructive or all of the above — and so there are no real surprises.

Joel is on the verge of selling his company to General Mills. At the same time, his nonexistent sex life with his frosty wife (a thoroughly underused Kristen Wiig) has him pondering an adulterous fling with a sexy new employee (Mila Kunis), who happens to be a scheming sociopath. So, his suave bartender friend (an amusing Ben Affleck) encourages him to hire a gigolo to sleep with her and justify his own affair. CHRISTY LEMIRE (AP)

CREEPY DOES IT: Sheri Moon Zombie is Deborah Myers and Chase Vanek is Michael Myers in Rob Zombie's "Halloween II."

ADAM (PG-I3, 97 minutes) Beth (Rose Byrne), just out of a disastrous relationship, has moved into a new apartment, and she's interested in the cute guy on the second floor (Hugh Dancy). Adam has Asperger's syndrome, which renders him unable to empathize or to understand what other people are feeling. At its best, the film makes the viewer understand the frustration of living in a world in which everyone is a stranger. (DK)

DISTRICT 9 (R, II2 minutes) The poison that permeates this phenomenal film is the same toxin that defined so much of 20th-century history: the oppression of the Other — in this case, scaly aliens with feelers for faces, a jones for canned cat food and a mother ship that has been hovering over Johannesburg for 20 years. The underlying gravitas of the story, in which aliens are warehoused in camps and used for gruesome experiments, keeps director Neill Blomkamp's film smart, even as the aliens are turning their pursuers into Heinz 57 Sauce. As the craven corporate tool Wikus van de Merwe, acting newcomer Sharlto Copley is nothing short of revelatory. Wikus is assigned to move the aliens from their ramshackle township to tent cities that are, in fact, concentration camps. The aliens are hard to like, but we like them, just as we end up liking Wikus and rooting for the demise of Greater Human Civilization. (JA)

(500) DAYS OF SUMMER (PG-I3, 95 minutes) This romance understands that we mark our lives by our scrapes and defeats with love rather than by the white wedding-cake successes. It's a drama that, at first blush, would seem excruciatingly ordinary: the 500-day affair between Tom, who believes wholeheartedly in love, and Summer, who isn't sure about love at all. What makes us connect is Tom's funny, morose and ironic commentary as he does his damndest to reach the heart of a woman whose idea of lover and friend is, well, confusing. (DT)

FOOD, INC. (PG, 94 minutes) This absorbing look behind the curtain of the cynical and often sickening workings of the modern industrial food system does a superb job of making its case that our current food ways are drastically out of whack. The film deftly demonstrates how issues such as illegal immigration, public health and intellectual property law intersect at the largely hidden nexus of Big Meat. (AH)

THE FINAL DESTINATION (R, 82 minutes) In the latest unoriginal, exhausted sequel, these movies have been reduced to bland killing machines, though this one features aggressive use of 3-D, with everything from race cars, tires and engines to nails from a nail gun, entrails and blood blasting off the screen into our laps. Blandly acted by players who seem resigned to the paycheck rather than terrified by the prospect of death or paralyzed by fear or even morbidly fascinated by their impending doom, this one is certainly worth a pass. Of the blasé cast, only Mykelti Williamson, as a security guard who accepts his fate with the help of his faith, and Nick Zano, playing a rude, crude and funny frat-boy jerk, stand out. It's not frightening in the least, with only a few amusing moments, a pedal-and-forehead-to-the-metal racetrack race track crash opener, and then you just keep time by counting off who survives the initial slaughter, and who awaits death when "their turn" comes. ORLANDO SENTINEL

FUNNY PEOPLE (R, 145 minutes) As the film opens, comic superstar George Simmons (Adam Sandler) gets the news that he is suffering from a probably fatal form of leukemia. Meanwhile, Ira Wright (Seth Rogen) works the unpaid L.A. comedy club circuit by night. George catches Ira's act and asks him to be his writing assistant and, it turns out, one-man entourage. Writer-director Judd Apatow's alert, crude and compassionate film takes digressive, thoroughly unexpected turns as George takes stock of his life. (AH)

G.I. JOE (PG-I3, II8 minutes) Stephen Sommers' film is the loudest, flashiest, silliest and longest blockbuster in a summer full of long, silly, flashy, loud blockbusters. As far as plot goes, the crack commando team of G.I. Joes encounter an evil weapons dealer, a mad scientist, nanobots with a taste for I9th-century Parisian landmarks, a funny black guy, a couple of unconvincing romances and a girl who's been brainwashed into becoming a lethal killing machine. (DK)

THE GOODS: LIVE HARD, SELL HARD (R, 89 minutes) This sloppy compendium of filthy jokes and lowbrow sight gags is brought to us by producers Will Ferrell and Adam McKay. Granted, there are laughs to be had in this film, which features Ferrell in two of the funniest scenes. But most often they're cheap and easy, delivered with crude attempts at shock value. Jeremy Piven plays Don Ready, a car salesman who parachutes in when a dealership is in trouble. Ben Selleck (James Brolin), who must have a strong Fourth of July weekend or lose his business forever, calls him in. Soon, Don's prime motivation becomes impressing Selleck's comely daughter, Ivy (Jordana Spiro). Rooting for him to fail is Ivy's dweeb fiance, Paxton (Ed Helms), who sells foreign cars and leads a boy band called Big Ups. But the vehicle barely makes it to the finish line, wheezing and sputtering like one of Selleck's

clunkers. (AH)

HALLOWEEN II (R, IOI minutes) Writerdirector Rob Zombie's retooling of John Carpenter's 1981 film delivers that old slasher magic, replete with graphic gore unseen in the earlier movies. The old formula applies: We find qualmless, stabby serial killer Michael Myers alive (again) and on the loose (again) and willing to kill any baby sitter, beast or pedestrian he encounters in Haddonfield, Ill., on Halloween night. Generally, he stabs people. Throughout, Zombie introduces some Michael (Tyler Mane) backstory and far more blood than Carpenter could have dreamed of. Some films might be said to be mountain-shaped, escalating to a peak before descending. Zombie's is more like a vast plateau. A plateau strewn with shards of glass. Which is to say that

THE HURT LOCKER (R, 130 minutes) Kathryn Bigelow's captivating, completely immersive action thriller is set in Iraq in 2004, but it transcends time and place, and in the process attains something universal and enduring. Viewers are plunged into the disorienting world of the soldiers who disarm what Americans have come to know as IEDs, or roadside bombs, neither of which does full justice to the carnage they inflict. (AH)

INGLOURIOUS BASTERDS (R, 151 minutes) Quentin Tarantino manages to simultaneously surprise and revert to form in this film. The surprise lies in his choice of period and subject matter. Set in France during World War II, the film tells the fictionalized story of a special squad of American Jews whose mission to kill and capture German soldiers was uniquely practical and symbolic. But from the admittedly breathtaking opening sequence, the film isn't about history or war, or people and their problems, or anything of substance or meaning. It's a movie about other movies. Brad Pitt stars as Lt. Aldo Raine, who early in the movie is shown assembling a group of Jewish soldiers whose mission is to do "one thing and one thing only: to kill Nazis." Pitt's character ends his speech by announcing that he's part Apache and as such will insist that each of his menthe titular IBs - owes him "one hunnert Nattzie scalps." Because it's Tarantino. viewers can rest assured that we'll see those scalps being taken. If only the Allies had Tarantino on their side, he could have made Hitler's head explode. As it happens, they must instead settle on having their actions and exploits extruded through his own bizarre sense of cruelty, spectacle and talky, postmodern irony. (AH)

JULIE AND JULIA (PG, II8 minutes) Two movies battle for pride of place in Nora Ephron's adaptation of memoirs by blogger Julie Powell and culinary legend Julia Child. Either way, Powell's whiny, sad-sack self-absorption is no match for Child's spirit, strength of character and joie de vivre, a fact made painfully clear in a movie that soars whenever Child (Meryl Streep) is on the screen and sags when Powell shows up. (AH)

LORNA'S SILENCE (R, 105 minutes) Writers-directors Luc and Jean-Pierre Dardenne's principal characters are usually only two or three rungs from the bottom already, which makes their imminent plunge not just desperate but dire. The protagonist is Lorna (Arta Dobroshi), an Albanian emigre and player in a marriagefor-immigration racket, whose conspirators would rather kill her husband-of-convenience, Claudy (Jérémie Renier), than wait for a divorce. Does she save the husband or save herself? As they've done so often, their heroine is at the intersection of economic salvation and moral damnation, with very few places to turn that don't involve a head-on collision with a nasty fate. The story is built on tiny increments of tantalizing details, meted out in penurious droplets and with chest-tightening tension. (JA) with his elderly parents at their Catskills El Monaco Motel, which is on the brink of being taken over by the bank. A quiet, dutiful son, he cooks up ways to make something of the decrepit fleabag. When Elliot hears that a three-day music festival has had its permit denied by a nearby town, he contacts the promoter and makes the introduction to a farmer whose green, hilly property is deemed ideal for the event. The film steadfastly remains outside the main event and its familiar muddy scrum of hippies and hangers-on. Instead, Lee stays with the relatively straight-laced Elliot as he watches the world change outside his window. Even at its most uneven and unprepossessing, this quirky, self-effacing little comedy takes its place in Lee's American oeuvre with quiet ease. (AH)

PONYO (G, 100 minutes) You might think Japanese director Hayao Miyazaki's new animated film is the anti-"Up." That recent Disney/Pixar smash was about the joys of soaring into the clouds; "Ponyo" makes its home in the sea. What do the two movies have in common, besides a Disney logo? They're both masterpieces. Ponyo, a magical goldfish (voiced by Noah Cyrus, sister of Miley), is the daughter of Fujimoto (Liam Neeson), a god of the sea. On a trip to the surface, Ponyo encounters 5-yearold Sosuke (Frankie Jonas, younger brother of the musical Jonases), who is bereft when Fujimoto snatches his daughter back. When a determined Ponyo returns to Sosuke, waves inundate Sosuke's entire island. It isn't Miyazaki's greatest film, but this beautiful, quirky fable is a labor of love. (DK)

POST GRAD (PG-I3, 89 minutes) An uneasy mix of family comedy, 20-something romance and zeitgeisty recession horror story, "Post Grad" explores the fate of the class of 2009 — those fragile grads released, useless diplomas in hand, into the harsh economy. Alexis Bledel plays Ryden Malby, a go-getter whose life plan seems on track when she snags an interview at a big publishing house. But when she doesn't get the job, she's forced to move back to the suburbs with her oddball family. Those oddballs are played by world-class oddballs Michael Keaton, Jane Lynch and Carol Burnett. They do their best to inject life into the film's unexceptional comic set pieces, vigorously shaking a few big laughs out of Kelly Fremon's screenplay. (DK)

Niffenegger's novel, the lovely Rachel McAdams, as Clare, returns to the genre of her most-beloved movie, "The Notebook." Here, her true love, Henry (Eric Bana), is afflicted by a "rare" (i.e., ridiculous) genetic abnormality that causes him to abruptly leave the present tense for eras unknown, returning who knows when and in what kind of shape. It's the kind of mutant disorder that makes a committed relationship an impossibility: Tell him to take out the garbage and he ends up in the '60s. But what's more romantic than the concept of waiting? (JA)

👝 Love en Francais

Summer is ending, and with it our seemingly endless supply of free movie screenings. It's OK — this is D.C., and you can always depend on the National Gallery.

We're excited about its whole series on French director Alain Resnais, but we're especially stoked for "Last Year at Marienbad," an avant-garde film in which narrative structure gives way to dream-like complexity. Gosh, we're pretentious. Sorry. But go see it! F.Z.

Wastin' Away Again

It doesn't surprise us that people turn to pop music legend Jimmy Buffett during a recession. "Sit back," his music says, "relax, have another beer, smoke if you got 'em. It is all going to be OK." At least, that's what Jimmy says to us. Who knows what he whispers to you in the deep recesses of your nightmares? If he relaxes you, why not go see him? Unless you don't have a car. It'll be tough to get out to Nissan Pavilion without one. F.Z.

Keeping Comedy Alive

Man, talk about an embarrassment of riches. Not only do we get all the politicians and their hilarious antics back this month, but we also get the final weekend of the Washington Improv Theater's Witfest, an improv comedy festival. Tonight and tomorrow, you can see the local Wit troupes ham it up, along with a group from Boston. F. z.

Start the Weekend Wrong

Tonight's TV lineup is heavy on morbidity, violence and drugs

GLOOM | This evening, all the "Guy" networks seem to be kicking Labor Day weekend off on a terribly gloomy note. Spike TV, for starters, is offering "1,000 Ways to Die" (1 p.m., Spike), followed by "Sniper" (2 p.m.), "Sniper 2" (4 p.m.) and "Sniper 3" (6 p.m.). Prime time's no picnic in guyville, either. Spike wants viewers to revel in Sylvester Stallone's dark, violent Vietnam betraval fantasies in "First Blood" (8 p.m., Spike) and "Rambo: First Blood Part II" (10 p.m., Spike).

Over on Discovery, the pickings are just as grim. "Explosions Gone Wrong" (8 p.m., Discovery) leads into "Meth Nation" (9 p.m., Discovery), followed by a "Cocaine Nation" (10 p.m., Discovery) chaser. Stroll over to the History Channel, and you've got three helpings of "Lock N' Load With R. Lee Ermey" (9 p.m., 10 p.m., 11 p.m.), a show about firing off big weapons, hosted by an actor most famous for playing a sadist in "Full Metal Jacket."

Perhaps these networks are taking the "dark" thing just a little too far. Just thinking about those lineups is enough to bum out even the manliest of guys. Then again, it's nothing that a 24-hour "Caddyshack" marathon couldn't cure. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to be the center of a great deal of attention before the day is out—and all because of something you did by accident.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) What you share with those closest to you will perhaps be the most valuable commodity you have. Don't hold back when the time comes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You may receive a great deal of input from those who have been there before, but you're going to want to make your own decisions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Others are sure to be taken aback by your honest and straightforward approach. No one is doing things quite like you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're facing many options, but not all are realistic. You'll have to investigate closely to determine the right path.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Someone close to you is making things harder than they have to be. You know what has to be done, and when; get to it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) The more open and honest you can be about yourself, your motives and your methods, the less resistance you're likely to encounter.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Time spent with a friend can prove more important to you at this time than you had anticipated. Some things are said that matter most.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You are not at the center of the storm, but you're sure to have an influence over those who are calling the shots.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's a good day to focus on the affairs of someone close to you who offers a youthful, fresh perspective. You can learn athing or two.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You could use another's help, but you're not likely to ask for it outright. When the time comes, you'll know how to send clear signals.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be glad, once again, that you're not a household name. Indeed, you'll go out of your way to avert any attention from vourself.

Fill in each column, row and 3x3 box with the digits I through 9 without repeating any. The twist in Samurai Sudoku is that the digits that appear in the overlapping boxes must work for both puzzles. A piece of advice to get you started: Don't focus on completing one grid at a time. Keep the whole puzzle in mind as you go, because filling in a number in one grid could give you clues to another.
